War Bond Sales Total $57,918.75 in Antioch Twp.

Subscribers Urged to Pick up Bonds Before Friday Night

Purchases of war bonds by Antioch township citizens in the nation's second war bond drive totals $57,918.75 thus far, Chairman Edward C. Jacobs announced today.

There are outstanding pledges of approximately an additional $10,000 of persons who have not yet called at Antioch banks or the local post office to make their purchases, Jacobs said. They are urged to make their purchases before Friday evening, which marks the close of the drive.

The national quota for the second war bond drive was set at 13 billion dollars. While no quota was set for the local township, it is believed that Antioch has reached a new high in bond sales.

Citizens, generally have been responsive to this and other similar drives to aid the war effort, Jacobs said, and he commends the solicitors for their thorough house-to-house canvass.

Sales reported from Antioch's three issuing institutions were:
First National Bank $37,900.00
State Bank of Antioch 14,508.25
Antioch Post Office 5,512.50

ROISING TO SERVE ON IMPORTANT COUNTY BOARD COMMITTEES

Supervisor William A. Resing of Antioch township will serve on two important committees, it was revealed Tuesday when the standing committees of the county board of supervisors was announced.

The local supervisor drew a seat on the Miscellaneous Claims committee and on the road outfit and maintenance committee. Supervisor John K. Cribb of Lake Villa township will serve on the public buildings and grounds committee and also on the road outfit and maintenance committee.

Chairman Joseph P. Welch announced the formation of a "cabinet," or advisory committee which was created by the committee on rules. The new committee "will advise with the chairman on all matters that do not come within the scope of other standing committees." The three members of the new committee are David Van Patten, Newport, chairman, Drank Davis, Benton, and Emmett Moroney, Deerfield.

Aimed at discouraging absenteeism at board meetings, a clause in the rules provides that a member must first obtain the consent of the chairman before absents himself from a meeting. The rules committee pointed out that while many members attend all sessions, some attend but few of the meetings and others often leave the sessions before adjournment.

News of the Boys in Service

CUNNINGHAM AND CRANDALL
UNDER FIRE AT GUADALCANAL
April 10, 1943

Dear Sirs:
I have been receiving my copies of the Antioch News right along and decided it was about time I showed my appreciation.

I don't think there is anything we boys in the service enjoy any more than our home town paper. Especially when you are in a hot spot. I have enjoyed reading the paper several times while sitting in a fox hole.

At this time I also want to thank the American Legion and the people of Antioch for the check they sent me at Christmas time.

As most of you people already know Jack Crandall and myself are in the same battalion. We spent four and one-half months on Guadalcanal, being bombed and shelled most every night.

For the first month we were there we lived on Jap food, that being all we had. It sure is terrible tasting stuff. I wouldn't recommend it to anybody. We also smoked their cigarettes and ate their candy because we couldn't get any of ours. I guess we were very lucky that the Japs had left that when they made their huries move into the jungle.

They even left some of their beer which doesn't compare to ours at all. I don't think they have anything that will compare with ours, not even courage, and I have seen it displayed on both sides.

We left Guadalcanal in January and were taken to Auckland, New Zealand, where we spent seven weeks recuperating.

The people of New Zealand sure treated us swell. We were given a five day leave while there that we all enjoyed very much.

We left there and were brought to our present location where we are doing another job.

The only thing that I have to kick about here is the mosquitoes. They don't belong to the union—they work 24 hours a day and are as big as our P-38's.

The mail man just brought me four letters, so guess I will have to knock off and read them.

Keep up the good work on the home front and we will do our part out here.

Yours for victory,
Clifford Cunningham, S F 2/c

TWO RESCUED AT SILVER LAKE AFTER SAILBOAT CAPSIZES

A rescue in which two Chicago youths were saved from the waters of Silver Lake after their sailboat had capsized 200 feet off shore was effected late Tuesday afternoon.

The youths were Harold E. Lechler, 18, and James Fournay, 17, who were at the Lechler cottage preparing the place for the summer season. In mid-afternoon they decided to take the Lechler sailboat onto the lake.

Robert Fournay, brother of the younger youth, was left on shore. When a sudden gust of wind capsize the boat the two youths were hurled into the icy water, but they managed to cling to the side of the boat. Robert Fournay went for assistance. Launching a boat, Deputy Sheriff Harry Schmalzfeldt, George Richards and Ross Davis of Silver Lake, brought the boys to shore.

Antioch WAAC Likes Texas

It is great receiving the Antioch News. When you live home and know what is happening every day you don't pay much attention to the news, but when you are several hundred miles away you really are glad to hear what is happening to your friends and neighbors.

I enjoyed reading the letter my brother, Earl, wrote. It was like receiving a letter from him. I was very much surprised to see my own name making the front page after I left.

I am now stationed at the WAAC Army Administration School in Denton, Texas. This country is wonderful, and I can see why some of the Antioch people come to Texas. The (continued on page 5)

Set May 29 For Legion Poppy Day

Mrs. S. B. Nelson Chosen Auxiliary Poppy Day Chm.

Poppies in tribute to America's battle dead of two wars will be worn in Antioch on Saturday, May 29, Mrs. Thomas E. Burnette, president of Antioch Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary announced today.

The poppies this year will honor the men who have given their lives in the present conflict, as well as those who fell among the poppies of France and Belgium twenty-five years ago, she said. The money contributed for the flowers will be used for the welfare of victims of both wars and their families.

The Antioch Unit of the Auxiliary is making extensive preparations for the observance of Poppy Day here, under the leadership of Mrs. Burnette and Mrs. S. B. Nelson, Unit Poppy Chairman. The little red flowers of remembrance will be available to everyone in the village, offered by volunteer workers from the Auxiliary who will be on the streets throughout the day.

The flowers, made of crepe paper in replica of the wild Flanders poppy, have been ordered from Hines hospital where disabled veterans manufactured them under direction of the Illinois Department of the Auxiliary. Poppy making has kept the hands of hundreds of these unfortunate men usefully employed during the winter and spring, helping them pass the long hospital hours and aiding in their rehabilitation.

More Americans than ever before are expected to wear poppies this year as a personal tribute to those who have been killed, and to aid the disabled, their families and the families of the dead.

Poppy Poster Contest
As in former years a "Poppy Poster" contest is being conducted by the Auxiliary with school children in all the schools of the township competing for the honor of designing the best poster for the township. The contest is nationwide in scope and the winning poster from this locality will be entered in state and national competition. Reports on the contest indicate that a great many children are preparing entries. The contest closes May 1.

Many have already responded, among them the Grass Lake school Parent-Teachers association.

Red Cross Workers to Receive Course in Surgical Dressing

Demand for more surgical dressings than the local Red Cross unit can supply has prompted committee members to ask that a special course in the preparation of the bandages be given here by a competent Red Cross instructor. The date has been tentatively set for May 7.

The course will offer instruction in the preparation of many kinds of surgical dressings, so that the scope of work by the local unit may be widened and also that the skill and speed of workers may be increased. Heretofore the work of this unit has been confined to only a few kinds, and thus far about twenty thousand dressings and bandages have been made and forwarded to county Red Cross headquarters in Waukegan.

There are sixty registered workers in the local group, and there is about a 50 per cent attendance at the working sessions on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, according to Mrs. Ed F. Vos, local chairman.

Women and girls of the community who have leisure time are asked to contact the chairman, Mrs. Vos, Tel. 305, or come directly to the Red Cross rooms on the second floor of the Webb building. Hours are: Tuesday, 8 to 4 and 7 to 9; Thursday, 12 to 4 and 7 to 9; and Friday, 12 to 4.

St. Ignatius' Parish Welcomes New Pastor

Buck Rogers Comes Closer

Civil aviation has grown in a startling manner during the five years the Civil Aeronautics Act has been in effect. The possibilities for development of this industry are beyond the imagination of most persons. Buck Rogers and his rocket ship no longer seem fantastic. It will keep Congress humping to provide suitable legislation under which our air industry can maintain America's peacetime air supremacy in the years to come.

The Lea-Bailey bill proposes to amend the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1933 so as to extend Federal regulation to all air commerce, whether between points in the same state or between points in different states. The reason is obvious, for the average passenger journey by air is 380 miles. One air line covers 22 states; two, 18; one, 15; and another, 13. The national character of air transportation makes local control impractical.

The long experience of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce in the House of Representatives in other modes of transportation, has contributed immeasurably to the far-sighted legislation under which the scheduled air lines are presently operating, and has saved the industry from the mistakes of other carriers.

Another Warning

Persons familiar with the farm situation have long pointed out the danger the nation faced by stripping the farms of manpower, machinery and needed fertilizer. Time has shown their fears were justified. The situation as to our milk supply is grave.

At a recent hearing in the East, after testifying on details of milk marketing orders that can make or break the farmer, Fred H. Sexauer, president of the Dairy-men's League Co-operative Association, again sounded a warning as to our future milk supply. He pointed out, for example, that milk must be priced at figures that will enable dairymen to compete with hog raisers for corn.

"There are numerous indications," he said, "that dairy farmers will be confronted with a severe feed shortage late this year or early in 1944. If and when they have no feed, farmers will be forced to slaughter their cows. Then the public will be faced not only with rationing of milk, but with a health endangering shortage, which may even reduce the supply of dairy foods for the armed forces as well as for children and industrial workers."

Handwriting on the Wall

Kansas has passed a labor union control bill with teeth in it. Other states are considering similar measures.

One bill before Congress would do away with rack-clearing by unscrupulous leaders within union ranks. Another bill would clarify the meaning of the term "employee" so that "supervisory" and "management" officials could not be forced into unions under the classification of "employee," thereby denying management any representation in controversial issues.

Organized labor has had the good will of the public, but the American people resent dictator policies. Labor leaders should take notice.

Still in the Ring

The question of how to collect the Federal income tax is not settled by any means. The pay-as-you-go idea gets on its feet as rapidly as it is knocked down. Polls over the nation show conclusively that the people favor such a plan.

In regard to the Treasury's objection that the Huml plan would favor the rich, Congressman Celler, Democrat, of New York, says: "That is untrue. It is a demagogic slogan below the belt. The Huml plan, with all the bugs taken out, would favor no one class. All can be treated alike. All would benefit and the government would be enriched with less tax delinquencies, defaults, and refusals to pay."

As taxes get heavier, and as millions of people, for the second time, pay an installment of their Federal income tax, demands will grow for a pay-as-you-go tax plan.

The public seldom hears of the behind-the-scenes struggles to overcome knotty performance problems of modern warfare. How they are solved in laboratories seldom reaches the headlines, although the solutions are of headline importance.

Such was the case with lubricating submarines, a problem that a Western Oil company has finally solved to the satisfaction of the Navy. In commending company engineers on their success, a high naval officer remarked that: "These engineers worked with the Navy in an intensive study of lubrication for submarines, a problem which for years has baffled experts. The new type of oil they succeeded in producing has proven successful under the most difficult operating conditions."

Success, a high naval officer remarked that: "These engineers worked with the Navy in an intensive study of lubrication for submarines, a problem which for years has baffled experts. The new type of oil they succeeded in producing has proven successful under the most difficult operating conditions."

The story of the solution of this one problem so vital to the war effort, is typical of many similar problems the oil industry has had to solve in this mechanized war.

It is seemingly little things such as these that will finally win a big war. Fortunately American industry is efficiently and continuously ferreting out day by day the answers to these "back page" problems. Only the men on the battlefield where details count, can fully appreciate the job industry is doing.

CHRIST'S CHARGE TO PETER

LESSON TEXT—John 21:15-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends—John 15:13.

Breakfast for a hungry fisherman—that is what our loving and thoughtful Lord had provided on the shore of Galilee. He wanted to talk to Peter, but He knew this was needful first. There are some folk who think that following Christ is a doubtful matter, devoid of every pleasure. Jesus never taught any such thing. He attended weddings and dinners even in the homes of those despised by men. But remember that He always did it for their spiritual good, not merely for His own enjoyment; and that He always brought the gathering up to His own spiritual level, rather than stooping to any worldly or wicked standards.

Here we find Him with a glowing fire upon which fish is broiling; and with bread ready for those hungry men. It was just like Him thus to meet in most delightful and satisfying fellowship those who serve Him. Draw up to the fire, Christian friends who are standing afar off. You may be so timid that, like the disciples, you will not dare to call Him by name (v. 12), but if you will come, you will find that the precious fellowship will soon warm your heart.

With the meal over, Christ turned to Peter and in their conversation we find the latter required to

I. Face Responsibility (vv. 15-17).

With kindly persistence our Lord brought Peter face to face with his responsibility of full-hearted devotion to Him. Before service can be rendered there must be a right relationship to the Lord.

Three times Peter was asked to declare his love for Christ. Such a public confession was quite in place, before the man who had thrice denied his Lord was restored to a place of leadership. The words "more than these" (v. 15) indicate that Jesus was asking of him a high measure of devotion. It is no more than He has a right to expect of us.

The conversation after breakfast that morning was a very profitable one. One is reminded, by contrast, that few of our mealtime discussions are very useful. Many (perhaps most) after-dinner speeches and conversations yield little profit. Here is an occasion when such was not the case. One wonders whether we would not be wise to take the suggestion and turn our thoughts and those of our dinner guests to spiritual things. Surely it should be so among Christian friends and in a Christian home.

II. Feeding Christ's Flock (vv. 15-17).

We review the same verses to point out that an expression of love to Christ means nothing except as it manifests itself in service. Like Peter, we are to be diligent about feeding His flock, whether they be the young and inexperienced lambs, or the mature sheep of the fold.

We tend to specialize. Even in soul-winning some give themselves to child evangelism while others reach only adults, and would hardly think of dealing with a child. True it is that we have varying gifts, and one does one type of work better than another. But let us avoid over-specialization. Every needy soul is a challenge to us as we present the gospel.

The word "feed" should be stressed. Here again the church has frequently failed. Men and women are won to a decision for Christ, and then forgotten. Sheep must be fed if they are to grow. A teaching ministry must accompany the evangelistic effort. They belong together, and to neglect either is to fail, at least, in that measure.

III. Follow Him to the End (vv. 18-24).

Endlessly ingenious are the devices of Satan. He who had sifted Peter like wheat (Luke 22:31) and had rejoiced in the weakness of his denial of Christ, now saw him stepping out into victorious living. He heard the prophecy of the martyr's death of Peter. So he put into his heart a question. Why should he suffer? What about John? What was the Lord going to do for him?

When our enemy cannot trip us up with temptation to personal sin, he resorts to the device of jealousy. Many promising Christian workers have become useless because they have taken their eyes off Jesus and put them on the persons and work of other Christians. Doing a work which was difficult and unnoticed but very important to God, they have felt the urge to quit because someone else seemed to have the easier task and receive more recognition.

The answer of Jesus in verse 22 plainly states that it is not the place of one disciple to judge the course of life of another, nor to gauge his own devotion to Christ by another's place or service.

The word of Christ to us is the same as to Peter: "Follow me." We have all we can do to live our own lives in a manner well-pleasing to our Lord.

Among the many electric machines used in the production of Army and Navy shoes, is the sole cutting machine. This cutting form is placed on the leather and this powerful hammer-type machine stamps out the heavy sole with lightning speed.

In the lasting room these electric machines join the insole to the upper which is drawn tightly over the last to receive its shape. The shoes then move on to sewing, lock-stitching, trimming and finishing machines which are driven by electric power.

Marching to Berlin

For the long, hard trip to Berlin our millions and millions of men need good, comfortable clothing, as well as adequate food, and fighting equipment. They must have uniforms, underwear, socks and shoes. And Electric Power is on the job to meet their needs.

In the vast shoe-making program, for example, power is a vital necessity because electric machinery is used in almost every phase of manufacture. The skiving, sewing, lock-stitching, rounding and leveling, all require electric power machines for speed and quality work.

Supplying Electric Power to the shoe industry and all other industries engaged in war production in Northern Illinois, is our first responsibility. And to this job we are devoting the efficiency attained through long years of experience.

The broadcast was arranged by Nina Mathisen of Bristol, Wis., member of the National Baha'i Radio Committee and will be given by Allen McDaniel of Washington, D. C., chairman of the National Baha'i Executive body. Mr. McDaniel has been active throughout the building of the Baha'i temple with the supervision and management of the construction and ornamentation of this world famous edifice.

From the time that the cornerstone was laid in May, 1912, by 'Abdu'l-Baha, teacher and Exemplar of the Faith, of His father, Baha'u'llah, until the present completion of the exterior, the erection of this edifice has been achieved through the sacrifice of members of the Faith in all parts of the world. News of the Boys

Texans are wonderful people and they put themselves out trying to make us at home. We attend the Texas State Teachers College for women, and live in the dormitories that the girls used to occupy. The army has taken over two dormitories and several class rooms.

When we finish this course, which is for six weeks, we shall be ready to work in a personnel office or a company office.

Here is my new address and thanks again for the newspaper.

Upon completion of his training, he will wear the distinctive wings of a United States Air Forces pilot, and will be commissioned or rated as a pilot officer.

To the American Legion:

I have been receiving the Antioch News every week and thanks a lot. It seems good to read about folks from your home town. I am still in Sunny California and the army is O. K.

The scenery here is really beautiful and the girls from Hollywood aren't bad either. I really have seen many movie actors and actresses. Bob, Ed, and Edgar are still with me. We all hope to see you real soon.

Dear Sir:
Just a few lines to thank you all for the Antioch News and the American Legion Post of Antioch for their Christmas gift. Sure feels good to get a paper from back home and read all the news. And sure hope you keep sending it. We are now at Camp Forrest, Tenn., on maneuvers and I would really appreciate it a great deal if you would send the paper here. Thanks a million.

(By Mabel Hunter)

The Antioch High School Jazz Band has been given the honor of playing for the American Legion dance to be given at Lake Villa on Saturday evening, May 1.

Mr. Von Holwede has gotten several new pieces for the affair and we hope they will please everyone.

The band also has another engagement for the fifteenth of May at the Lake Zurich prom.

The band is very grateful for these engagements and loves to play when their music is appreciated.

Tuberculin Tests Are Given at High School

(By Clare Sieben)

Last Tuesday, April 19, 1943, tuberculin tests were administered to the students at the high school. All freshmen and seniors desiring this test were given cards a few days before.

Dr. Petter, head of the Tuberculosis hospital at Waukegan, and Miss White, who presented the two films on tuberculosis a few weeks ago, gave

The course just completed included intensive training in the operation and repair of various types of machinery found aboard Uncle Sam's warships. Approximately 500 Bluejackets, selected on the basis of a series of aptitude tests given them while in recruit training, are attending the naval training schools here.

Now a specialist in the Navy, the Bluejacket awaits assignment to active duty at sea, or at some naval shore station.

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to give you my change of address because I really like to get your paper. I don't know how much longer we will be here as we are just here waiting transfer to where I don't know and I couldn't tell you if I did. We may be here for some time and we may be gone before I get the first issue of the paper. However, as soon as we move I will send you the change of address.

The weather out here is fine and I got a dandy sunburn.

We are getting plenty of long hikes and running the obstacle course. We get plenty stiff but are slowly getting back in shape. Hoping to get the paper next week, I am,

I have been receiving the Antioch News now for the past four months. I want to take this opportunity to thank you. Due to our constant work and movements I have been unable to find any spare time in which to write and thank you.

the tests with the assistance of a nurse from St. Therese's hospital. The tests were given on Tuesday and on the following Thursday Miss White and Doctor Petter, accompanied by another nurse from St. Therese's hospital returned to examine the tests and record the results. Dr. Petter was glad to report that these students were 100 percent negative in their reactions. This is quite unusual. If any of the students had reacted positively there would have been a day set aside for them to report to Waukegan for chest X-rays. We are glad to announce this will not be necessary.

Changes Made in Cast of Senior Play

(By Pat Ryan)

Several last minute changes have been made in the cast of the Senior play. The recasting of four parts was necessary. Clare Sieben has replaced Betty Schlebe in the leading role of Gale Joy; Sarah McBride has replaced Clare as the Blind Date; Clara Wurster is Ethel in place of Sarah, and Doris Strang has been added to the cast as Miss Round Lake Beach.

Even with these unexpected changes the cast is sure of a smash hit. (We hope). Don't forget, no date for Friday night! You've got one with us here at the high school.

"What's Cookin'?"

(By Billie May Runyard)

Those cooks in our A. T. H. S. cafeteria sure are "cookin'" with gas, and on the right front burner, too. That's my opinion and it's the same with about ninety-nine other schoolmen who daily partake of the noble fare set forth here in the cafeteria.

You know, food just doesn't become appetizing on its own hook, some one has to make it that way. There's where Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Tom Burnette, and Mrs. Leslie Heath come in. They're our cooks. As for experience, why, Mrs. Murray has been doing her job in our kitchen for thirteen years. How's that for a continuous service record?

These women are under the direction of Miss Ethel Dixon, the Home Ec. teacher. Miss Dixon plans the menus and our "chefs" do the rest. The cafeteria makes all its own bread, rolls, cakes, pies, and cookies. Take it from me, their pastry is worth raving about.

For our health's (and pleasure's) sake we're all hoping Miss Dixon and her "staff" keep up their laudable work.

do not know many people, even though my folks lived there quite a few years now. I have always worked out and away from the state of Illinois, getting up to visit my folks on few occasions. So Antioch is really strange to me.

I have been in the Army Air Force for the past 18 months now. My position is that of an aerial engineer on a light bomber.

I am sending a sort of an editorial along with this if you care to print it. Sincerely,

Cpl. John B. Collins, 39382556
465th Bomb. Sqdn. (L) A. A. F.
Alachua Army Air Field
Gainesville, Florida.

The other night somewhere between lights out and bed check my pal and I took a walk around our base. Aimlessly, with nothing in mind, we just walked. It might never have happened except that April's full moon streamed into the barracks at this precise time of the month when our budget had collapsed until payday, and walking, like the war effort, is getting a tremendous boost from gas rationing.

When we started out, the moonlight was having considerable competition from the glare of orderly rooms and street lamps. Nearer the line, though, the small lights and small jangling sounds faded out. The big hangar stood busy and alone, and all to the south of bombers on the apron was blue blaze. We thought of what Willa Cather had written in "Two Friends" about moonlight on the Kansas prairie: the magic of countless dust particles shimmering in the air—no less magic if the black loam of the Kaw happens to be Florida red earth. Melting into the hills beyond, roofs and trees had lost the raw, new look of wartime expansion. Only a single A-20 droned blackly across the moon to remind us that Alachua Field is not alone—that this same impartial beauty falls on the Libyan Desert and the valley of the Don.

We thought of home and other moonlight nights. We wondered where the July moon would find us. We wondered when we'd curse the moon above from some far outpost for helping enemy planes as well as our own. In Africa and Russia the only side that wants full moon is the side with air power.

The last night-flier was in when we got to bed. Looking out the barracks window, we knew it was worth the price of victory to make the moonlight safe for everybody.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Military motorcycles, for couriers, for speeding light guns from one section to another, are an important part of America's mechanized army. Many are equipped with sidecars for use of staff officers. They cost from $400 to $450.

We need thousands of these small maneuverable machines in our Army today. You and your neighbors, all buying War Bonds and Stamps, can help buy them for the Army. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in War Bonds and Stamps and become a member of the patriotic "Ten Percent Club." It is rapidly becoming the largest club in the world.

THE 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

Winner Take All!

There is one stark and simple fact about war which you had better get straight . . . and quickly, too
THERE IS NO SECOND PLACE IN A WAR — IT'S EITHER WIN OR LOSE!

This war is being fought for tremendous stakes . . .

- . . . for your life and your liberty.
- . . . for your church and your children.
- . . . for your freedom and your future.

And it's WINNER TAKE ALL. Don't forget that for a minute.

The winner will dictate whether tomorrow you shall be a free citizen of a free world, or a helpless serf to a "master race."

The winner will dictate whether you shall live and prosper under the Four Freedoms, or toil hopelessly in the darkness of a "New Order."

The winner will dictate . . . because the winner takes all.

The winner takes all. All you own, all you hold dear.

The winner is being decided right now . . . today . . . this very minute . . . on battlefields all over the world. Will you stand idly by . . . or throw all your weight on our side?

The weight of mighty tanks and planes. The weight of thousands of guns and millions of shells. The weight of billions of dollars . . . 13 billions which your country asks you to lend during this Drive.

Your country wants to borrow every idle dollar you have—every dollar except what you need for the barest necessities of life.

You'll have to give up some luxury or comfort which was dear to your heart. You'll have to postpone some pleasure which you had been eagerly anticipating.

But what of it?

Your sons and brothers and husbands are dying out there . . . fighting your fight. Surely it is no sacrifice to lend your dollars while they are giving their lives.

They need your help. They need the weapons your money can buy. If one of the War Loan volunteers calls on you . . . greet him with open pocketbook. Remember, Uncle Sam's goal is 13 billion dollars in April.

Don't wait to be asked. Go to your nearest bank, investment dealer, broker, Post Office or issuing agency and lay your money on the line. Remember it's an investment you're making—an investment that pays a good return and insures a happier future for you and your loved ones.

So lend up to the limit.

You'll sleep better for it.

The Antioch News

"I had an idea where they would be, and I explained. Bulkeley, I was sure, would take no chances with women and a child aboard. Of course he'd seen the Japanese signal fire the night before. Planes might be out spotting us for destroyers, and as soon as dawn broke Bulkeley undoubtedly had made for the nearest of those other Cuyos—picking one from his chart (we'd never been here before) which was surrounded by reefs and water so shallow that no destroyer could venture within gun range or even within sight. There he would wait all day, if not until dusk, at least until he thought the danger of spotting planes was past, before coming to join us here. That was my theory, and I stuck to it because it was the best one we had—the Admiral's was much more pessimistic.

"So at 8:37 we dropped a hook in the cove and I sent two men ashore with semaphore flags to climb the island's single five-hundred-foot hill and stand continuous watch for the other three boats of course, but particularly for Japs.

"Then we got to work gassing the ship, and it was a job. Drum by drum, we poured that 100 octane gasoline into her tanks, and it took all morning. As soon as we had entered the calm water of the cove, the army, which had been down in the cabin all night and miserably seasick, began stirring and soon showed definite signs of life—emerging into the sunlight, straightening their uniforms, and even mentioning the subject of breakfast, which wasn't unusual, considering the food that had gone overside during the night.

"We had breakfast aboard, of course, but just now it was out of the question. The ship had to be fueled at once, because no one knew when a dive bomber might chase us out of the cove. But since we feared an explosion from our highly volatile airplane gasoline, all electricity on the ship had to be turned off while we were pouring. As a result, the army got its breakfast about noon, and then there was time to look around. The island was intensely green—a few hills sloping abruptly into the sea—and our lookouts signaled down from the summit that on the other side lived nine families of natives. These had climbed the hill to gaze at the Americans, and told them that the day before they had seen a big ship going south. A warship? They didn't know, but we were uneasy. The water here was deep, and a cruiser could come in fairly close.

"At 5:30, when we figured any spotting planes would have had to head back for home, I was about to pull our lookouts from the hill and get under way when they saw a ship—apparently friendly, maybe an MTB. I picked it up with my binoculars and presently made out the 32 boat, which soon tied up alongside us.

"It was this boat, remember, which had been repaired after its explosion. The cook had been blown into Sisiman Cove. During the night its struts started coming loose, so they could use only one or two of their three engines, and they, like us, had lost touch with the other boats in the night. But instead of falling far behind the flagship, they had somehow managed, in the darkness, to get out in front of it.

"In the first gray light of dawn, their stern lookout reported a strange ship—gaining on them. Looked like a Jap destroyer. Now an MTB in good condition can outrun any warship afloat. But the 32 boat was hobbling on two engines, so although he was running full throttle, his commander wasn't surprised that the strange craft kept gaining. In order to lighten his boat and pull away, he dumped six hundred gallons of gasoline in drums over the side, but still the enemy was closing on him. There seemed nothing to do now but fight before the destroyer opened with its 3-inch guns. They readied two torpedoes and turned dauntlessly for the attack, to discover just in time that the strange pursuing craft was the 41 boat—their own flagship with General MacArthur aboard.

"So here they were—loaded down to the water line with seasick and puzzled generals. Just at this point there was a rising roar from seaward, and the 41 boat came around the point, Bulkeley and General MacArthur's party.

"We'd lost sight of you a few hours before dawn," said Bulkeley, "when you stopped to clean your atrolors. I went on ahead because I wanted to get as deep as possible into the Cuyo Islands before sunrise.

"As the sky pinkened I headed for the nearest and best—it was one of the prearranged crossings on the map. It wasn't much of an island—only a quarter of a mile wide—but it had plenty of shallow water to keep off Jap destroyers.

"Lying at anchor, some of the crew picked off a little sleep as we rolled gently in the sunshine. Presently the General came on deck; he was a fine figure in his camel's-hair coat and gold hat, frowning a little as he squinted in the sunshine at the water and white sand. Then Mrs. MacArthur and the little boy and his Chinese ayah came up to sit in wicker chairs in the sunshine. It was too bad little Arthur couldn't have played on the beach, but I told the General no one should go ashore. Because if dive bombers came over and spotted us, we would have to get the hell out of that cove quick, leaving even the lookout behind, and out into open water where we could dodge and twist.

"I figured the morning would be the dangerous time for bombers, if they knew we had slipped out, so by two o'clock I felt it was safe to get under way, and we threaded down through the little shoaly channels between the islands, which would defy a destroyer or cruiser to follow, approaching the last one, which was our general rendezvous. In the distance I could see the other two boats also heading for it, and when we arrived, Kelly in the 34 boat was already there and waiting.

"Then there was the problem of what to do about the 32 boat, which had dumped most of its gas at dawn, and couldn't proceed much farther at high speed.

"This was a rendezvous not only for our four MTB's, but also for General MacArthur's second means of escape—a submarine. It had all been carefully worked out, and the submarine would bob up in the cove tomorrow. Had we been attacked or broken down, the General could have left us here, and continued his trip on down to Australia by submarine.

"General MacArthur, Admiral Rockwell and Lieutenant Bulkeley talked about the night's plans—the advisability of continuing with us tonight or going by submarine," went on Lieutenant Kelly. "The Admiral was for staying with us; but the General was undecided. The afternoon trip had been rough, and Bulkeley had warned the night would be rougher. Yet as we lay there in the cove, the sea seemed calm enough, and the sky gave no hint of bad weather. So on the assurance of the Admiral that it would be good weather, the General decided they'd continue with us.

"Then, as Bulkeley had said, there was the problem of what to do with the 32 boat, which had dumped much of her gasoline. She did not have enough left to make the fast run with us to the island of Mindanao, where the General's party would get the plane for Australia. So Bulkeley gave her different orders. Her generals were to be transferred to my boat. She was to wait here in the rendezvous until tomorrow when the submarine arrived. She was to tell the submarine that everything had gone well, the General had gone on to Mindanao and would go to Australia by plane, as planned. Having delivered this message, the 32 boat was to go to Iloilo on the island of Panay, only one hundred and twenty miles away. There she could get repairs and enough gas to bring her on down to Cagayan to join the rest of us in the other three boats, and we would finish the war together in the southern islands.

"What went wrong with this plan, we don't know to this day. The boat's commander, Lieutenant Schumacher, must have decided that it wasn't in condition to follow these orders. Anyway, when the submarine arrived, he had it shell the 32 boat, so it would not fall into Japanese hands, and boarded the submarine, which dropped his crew off at Corregidor, and took him safely to Australia.

"We found out much later that he had gotten to Australia. For some time their disappearance was a mystery, and Bulkeley here spent several days flying out over all those islands trying to find some trace of the 32 boat. Some day, of course, there will be a full report on exactly what did happen which will explain everything.

"All we know is that we last saw them back there in the cove as we left the harbor—a hard right turn and then out to sea, at about 6:30. We were leading, so that the flagship, just behind us, could search out the smoothest part of our wake, so that MacArthur's party could ride comfortably. We'd been going about fifteen minutes when the port lookout called 'Sail-ho!' and there she was—three points on our port bow, distance about five miles. 'Looks like an enemy cruiser!' said the lookout. I grabbed my binoculars, and so it was! Hull down, but masts and superstructure plain. On the course we were steering we would cross her bow. I gave the 34 full right rudder and full speed ahead—it was much faster than eighteen knots, because the carbon had burned out of our motors. I knew that type of Jap cruiser could make thirty-five knots with all steam up. But unless they were expecting something, they could only make twenty-seven. So we had a good chance of keeping away from them—it might be dark before they could close in.

"Meanwhile I was hoping they hadn't seen us and praying that the sun would hurry up and set, but it just pooped along—seemed to hang there above the horizon for weeks, and finally bobbed under at seven o'clock.

"If you've never been in the tropics, you don't realize how fast it gets dark—almost no twilight at all."

"I think it was the whitecaps that saved us," said Bulkeley. "The Japs didn't notice our wake, even though we were foaming away at full throttle.

"During the excitement, the General was lying down in the cabin with his eyes closed, but Mrs. MacArthur, who was with him, heard everything that went on and she didn't turn a hair. She took it like a lady—went right on rubbing the General's hands to keep up his circulation, though she was seasick herself.

"I never went below, and all my men stayed at battle stations, so the people in the cabin took care of themselves—there was no one to wait on them. The General saw that I was supplied with cigars. They were pretty well provisioned. They'd brought from Corregidor, among other things, a few cases of Coca-Cola—the first I'd tasted in many weeks—and some of the tenderest ham I ever ate.

"It got dark fast after sunset, a wind sprang up, and ahead we could see lightning flashes. But these didn't help us find the narrow passage into the Mindanao Sea. We were going in the dark entirely by dead reckoning. At midnight we figured we'd be off the strait—so we turned into the pitch-blackness, holding our breath, but still we didn't hit anything. I had no charts, I'd never been there before, I could see absolutely nothing, but since we didn't crash into a beach, we kept on going, and at last I knew we were through and safely into Mindanao Sea—our dead-reckoning navigation had been right."

"And there we really caught hell," said Kelly. "Big foaming waves fifteen or twenty feet high thundering over the cockpit, drenching everybody topside. Also, because of the speed, water, and wind, it got damned cold. Our binoculars were full of water and our eyes so continuously drenched with stinging salt that we couldn't see, in strange waters with islands all around us. We could see the outlines of the big ones—Negros and Mindanao—very dimly against the horizon through the storm. But there were dozens of small ones and probably hundreds of reefs.

"The sea was on our port bow, tending to drive us south. We expected to make a landfall forty miles dead ahead—a small island where we would turn—and let me tell you this was an unpleasant situation for a navigator. The helmsman's eyes and ours were full of salt, you had to keep one hand in front of your eyes to avoid the slapping force of the water, and yet you needed both to hold on. The Admiral was pretty wrought up. 'I've sailed every type of ship in the navy except one of these MTB's,' he shouted at me above the wind, 'and this is the worst bridge I've ever been on. I wouldn't do duty on one of these for anything in the world—you can have them.'

"It was a real problem to keep astern lookout for the 41 boat so we wouldn't lose it. Three good waves in a row and we'd be out of sight, and in that weather we could pass within seventy-five yards and never see each other. The 41 was now keeping about two hundred yards astern, hunting for the smoothest part of our wake, to keep the General's party comfortable. The General had said that if his boat slowed, we who were ahead should also slow, letting them set the pace. I know seasickness can be very unpleasant, but I wanted to get them safe in port by dawn, in case there were Jap planes about, so I kept pulling them on. It got rougher and rougher, and the Admiral kept reminding it had been he who had assured MacArthur that Bulkeley was wrong about the weather—it would be calm.

"The General's going to give me hell for this in the morning, he said, uneasily. 'Damned if I thought Bulkeley knew what he was talking about—but he surely did.'

"The Admiral stayed with me up on the bridge the whole trip, in spite of the weather. Every half-hour I would send a member of the crew over the boat for inspection, to see how its hull was standing the strain, for we were taking an awful licking.

"During one of these I noticed a figure by the machine-gun turret, sitting with his feet propped up on a torpedo tube. His stomach was long ago empty, but he was leaning forward, retching between his knuckles. From this I guessed it might be one of our passengers, and sent a quartermaster to ask him if he wouldn't care to go below. The quartermaster returned and saluted. 'The General says he doesn't want to move, sir—he knows what's best for him.'

St. Denis, Reunion Islands
Despite the tropical heat of the Reunion Islands lowlands, most of the 210,000 islanders are concentrated in coastal communities. Biggest is St. Denis, the capital (30,000 population). St. Paul, St. Louis and St. Pierre rank next. These cities with Port des Galets, are the principal ports. Over their docks pass the foreign-bound sugar, rum, vanilla, tapioca, starch, coffee, also fiber and geranium essence. Only Port des Galets has a sheltered harbor. Public services include an 85-mile railway, and telegraph and telephone systems.

Hydrogen and Helium
It is found that by mixing one part of helium gas with four parts of hydrogen an inflammable gas is produced.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Rommel's Southern Front Stronghold Captured in British Eighth Army Drive; FDR, Camacho Join in 'Neighbor' Plea; American Fliers Pound Japs in Pacific

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, U. S. A., head of the Allied forces in Africa, takes the salute of a sentry as he inspects front lines in Tunisia. Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., commander of American ground forces driving through Tunisia, follows him. The colonel commanding the unit being inspected returns the sentry's salute.

TUNISIA:

Nazis Run Gauntlet

Axis efforts to reinforce their embattled armies in Tunisia met strong Allied resistance as Gen. Bernard Montgomery's 8th army opened a successful assault on the Enfidaville passes on the southern front. Enfidaville, Rommel's coastal anchor, fell after furious fighting.

While British naval units charged an Italian convoy in the narrow channel separating Sicily from Tunisia, American and British fighter planes fell upon huge German Junkers transports and cargo planes crossing the straits.

While British Spitfires held off Axis fighter escorts, American Warhawks (P-40) dived to attack the giant Junkers, flying almost at water level.

Fifty-eight of the Junkers and 16 of the fighters were claimed shot down. That brought to 142 the number of Axis aircraft destroyed in a three-day period.

Gen. Montgomery's hardened infantry stormed initial Axis positions in the mountains after artillery had laid down a heavy barrage.

FARM MEASURE:

House Economy

In one of its sharpest economy moves to date, the house passed by a voice vote and sent to the senate an agriculture department appropriation bill allotting $715,000,000 for the fiscal year 1944 but abolishing the Farm Security administration and banning incentive payments to farmers.

In its budget request the department had asked for $947,134,491. The measure lopped $240,093,647 off the original request. The revised total was reached by adding $20,000,000 for the Rural Electrification administration and striking $12,000,000 sought by the FSA for rural rehabilitation loans.

In its final form the house bill abolishes the FSA, abolishes the federal crop insurance program for wheat and cotton, stipulates that none of the funds may be used for incentive payments to farmers producing war crops, sets aside $300,000,000 for the AAA conservation program, prohibits its payment of more than $500 to any one person for soil conservation purposes, prevents restoration of the Regional Credit Agricultural corporation and allots $20,000,000 for REA.

Belief was expressed in some quarters that the senate committee would reinstate the FSA to prevent it from being snuffed out.

RUSSIA:

Scramble for Base

Portending possible large scale action in the Caucasus, German troops continued their pressure in the Novorossisk region.

While the Russians claimed to have beaten back Nazi efforts to prevent their forces from tightening their vise around Novorossisk, the Germans said the Luftwaffe pounded Red positions and supply bases on the Black sea coast.

Novorossisk stands as the Germans' lone important base in the Caucasus. Situated across from the Crimea, it was the only major position retained by the Nazis during their retreat this winter. It is a relatively short distance to Novorossisk from the Russian mainland connecting with the Crimea.

GOOD NEIGHBORS:

Visit in Monterrey

"We have, all of us, recognized the privilege of interdependence—one upon another."—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Good neighbors. Good friends. That is what we have always wished to be for all the peoples of the earth."—Miguel Aleman Camacho.

With those words, spoken on Mexican soil, the President of the United States and the president of Mexico reaffirmed the unity of the Americas and offered the good-neighbor policy as a model for the world, once the "machinery of barbarism constructed by the dictators is completely destroyed."

President Roosevelt arrived in Monterrey, site of the historic meeting, following an extensive tour of inspection through war centers in the southern part of the United States. He was high in praise of the troops, which he compared with those he had seen on his trip last September. He told the press he had found morale very, very high and declared the men looked extremely fit.

PACIFIC:

Action at Both Ends

Giving the Japs no rest, American fliers pounded enemy air fields and shipping at both ends of the Pacific.

Flying Fortresses, Liberators and Avengers struck at the Jap air base of Kahili in the Solomons, starting big fires and pocking the runways with bomb craters. Other units attacked Munda farther to the west, also causing damage.

While the air fields were being raided, Avenger torpedo planes sailed into a cluster of Jap ships bearing reinforcements for enemy troops in the Shortland island area of the Solomons. Five hits were scored on a 10,000-ton vessel, which was left sinking, and two other ships were battered by hits and near misses (bombs exploding alongside the target).

In the Aleutians to the north, bombers and fighter planes swooped down on Attu and Kiska. Results were unobserved at Attu, but hangars and camps were blown up and grounded planes strafed at Kiska.

WAR MANPOWER:

27 Million Frozen

If you're an employee in an essential industry, you're as good as frozen for the duration.

That is the substance of the War Manpower commission's orders forbidding employees in essential industry from changing jobs except under special conditions.

Under the WMC's order, a work-or-must be irregularly employed or not employed to his best ability in an essential industry before he can shift jobs. In regions in which the WMC has decreed no labor shortage exists, employees in essential industry can take higher paying jobs if the moves are approved by the WMC.

The WMC order does not affect employees in non-essential industry, who are free to switch positions. In all, some 27 million workers are affected by the WMC ruling.

Invoking provisions of the Economic Stabilization act, the WMC established a fine of $1,000 and a year's imprisonment for violation of the order.

FOOD SUPPLY:

Another Pull on Belt

Following a statement of the Office of War Information that there would be a reduction of 6 per cent in the food supply for this year, the department of agriculture revised its previous production estimates downward.

The department said there would be about 12 pounds less meat, a pound less poultry and fish, 2½ pounds less lard, margarine and cooking compounds, and about 10½ pounds less citrus fruits per person than anticipated earlier. Fractional increases were reported for canned fruits, potatoes and rice.

Despite the cut, the department said that the food supply per capita would equal the 1935-'39 total, but that rationing would spread the amount more equitably. The department also revealed that food production in 1943 will be 3 per cent above last year, if favorable weather prevails, and 31 per cent above the 1935-'39 average.

Of the total supply of food available this year, however, the army, lend-lease and world relief will obtain 25 per cent. Army requirements are based on a force of 8,200,000 men, who eat twice as much as civilians.

In its report, the OWI declared that food shortages will bring "inconveniences" and "exasperations" to consumers, but will not affect their life or health.

TOKYO:

Stung From Hornet

Equipped with a 20-cent bomb-sight, 16 North American B-25 medium bombers used the flight deck of the aircraft carrier Hornet to take off for the historic raid on Tokyo.

The Hornet was 800 miles from Tokyo when the B-25s rose in the air and headed for the Japanese coast line. As they approached, the airmen flew in at low level to avoid detection, and then raised their planes to 1,500 feet as they plastered factories, railways and refineries in Tokyo, Nagoya, Osaka and Kobe.

The original plan was to alight at certain points in unoccupied China, but storms arose, exhausting the planes' ebbing fuel supplies. Of the 16 craft, 15 made crash landings or were lost as their crews bailed out. Major General Doolittle, who led the raid, was among those who parachuted to safety.

Of the 80 pilots, eight fell into Jap hands. One was killed and two are still missing. Sixty-four survived, many of them landing in occupied China, but working their way to the unoccupied zone with the help of friendly natives.

Weak fighter opposition was encountered and anti-aircraft fire was inaccurate as the Japs were caught completely by surprise.

GOEBBELS:

No End of Sufferings

"The war is in its fourth year and has reached its hardest stage so far, and the end or a way out of its burdens and sufferings is at present nowhere in sight."

Thus spoke Nazi Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels on the eve of Adolf Hitler's 54th birthday. Goebbels said the fuhrer would spend the day at field headquarters.

While Goebbels spoke, Marshal Herman Goering issued an order of the day to the German army, stressing the same foreboding note.

Said he: "We will follow the glorious German flag in accordance with our oaths as brave soldiers—in any hours and in any fight on land and sea in any area with the greatest readiness to sacrifice."

Eulogizing Hitler as the "liberator of the fatherland," Goering also called him the "savior of western civilization from the Bolshevik menace."

SUBMARINES:

Planes vs. Wolves

Allied airplanes have joined in the battle of the Atlantic.

Manning American Flying Fortresses and Liberators and British Sunderlands, Allied airmen are ranging far into the North Atlantic to strike against packs of Nazi U-boats, attacking the east-bound convoys.

Attached to the British coastal command, these long-range heavy bombers are meeting the harassed convoys on the last leg of their journey. They are dumping thousands of depth charges on the wolf-packs they can spot from aloft.

In recent action, the bombers delivered 19 attacks in four days. Seeking to avoid the concussion of the depth charges, U-boats climbed to the surface and then engaged the airplanes with anti-aircraft fire from their decks. The British air ministry claimed no kills, but said there was evidence of at least five submarines destroyed.

The Allied planes were manned by British, Canadian, Rhodesian, Australian, New Zealand and Belgian aviators.

FOOD CONFERENCE:

U. S. Has No Scheme

Representatives of United Nations will crowd Hot Springs, Va., May 18, for the Allied food conference sponsored by the United States.

According to Sen. Alben Barkley, the conference will be chiefly exploratory, with the various delegates specifying the needs of conquered peoples, the means required to restore production in occupied countries and the mutual distribution of foodstuffs.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

LEND-LEASE: Lend-lease shipments to North Africa during the first four months of Allied occupation reached $26,250,000. Shipments included flour, sugar, clothing, seed.

HONEST STEEL: In a special report, the Truman war investigation committee called upon steel producers to overhaul their inspection systems so as to assure the government of the highest grades.

FOUR FREEDOMS: Speaking in Guayaquil, Ecuador, Henry Wallace said that unless the four freedoms were instituted after the war, democracy will have failed.

PRAYERS: Prayers for peace were asked as the Vatican inaugurated weekly broadcasts to Russia. The broadcast told the people not to give up hope for a peace despite the continuance of the war.

Singles and Doubles Tournament to Be Held at Recreation May 7-23

Plans are complete for the annual singles and doubles sweepstake tournament to be rolled at Antioch Recreation May 7 to 23 inclusive.

This event, which is being held for a much longer period than ever before this year, is expected to draw hundreds of entries from all over Northern Illinois. Last year the prize money amounted to more than $200, and it is expected that the entrants will carry away about twice that amount this year, due to the longer time the event will be continued.

All the regular leagues will be finished by the time the sweepstake opens and entrants may bowl at any time, day or night. Rules for the tourney include a two-thirds handicap for each bowler, figured on highest 1943 league averages; a 100-pin limit per person and 200 scratch for the singles and 400 for the doubles. Bowlers may enter the tournament as often as they wish, but will be allowed to bowl only twice at crowded times. Only one prize may be won by each contestant in the singles and only one with each partner in the doubles. There will be ten prizes awarded scaling down from 24% of the total prize money for first place to 5% for last prize and 5% for high game out of the money.

Manager Lou Bauer is offering a special prize for highest series shot in the tournament during the two week-end the event will be in progress. $5.00 will be given May 8-9 and May 15-16.

"Confidentially Yours" Is Heard Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays

One of radio's new popular features, "Confidentially Yours" is now heard in Antioch every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday 7:45 to 8:00 p. m. over WGN, featuring Arthur Hale, veteran Newscaster who knows well the battlefronts he discusses since he has not only studied at European universities but has also fought on its fields.

"Confidentially Yours" is prepared by Transradio Press in whose Manhattan skyscraper newsrooms twenty-four hours a day comes a stream of exclusive feature news over their wires, cables and short-wave radio facilities.

"This new program sponsored by the Sinclair Refining Company has been arranged so that it will be a definite war service to the community," said Joe Horton, local agent.

"The dominant message of this new series is information on how Sinclair can help make the nation's cars and farm machinery last longer and thus do a better job in the war.

"High quality lubricants and constant expert servicing of these machines can certainly be considered a most vital duty these days," concluded Mr. Horton.
